

Sunday Notes

First Church Happenings for the week of March 23, 2025

Sunday Worship

"O God, you are my God; I seek you; my soul thirsts for you; my flesh faints for you, as in a dry and weary land where there is no water." -- Psalm 63:1

I'd like to stay with David for a second straight Sunday. Last week, we studied his sacred song about seeking God's company: "Your face, Lord, do I seek. Do not hide your face from me." We learned that having a well-defined idea about God's nature and name (as David did) takes a long, long time. We also learned that it's okay to start our own seeking from scratch!

This week's sacred song (selected verses from Psalm 63) has a similar sound. David describes his desire for God in terms of thirst, or appetite, or craving. I think most of us have experienced those same pangs. I also think we often seek and settle for quick thirst quenchers instead of waiting on God to satisfy us. I'll say more when I see you. The sermon is entitled: The Need for Speed.

Be a blessing. Be the church.

Rev. Fredd

GHIAA joins movement to protect CT's immigrants

In response to the federal government's increased efforts to deport immigrants -- often without any due process protections -- GHIAA is joining CT immigrant advocates in efforts to strengthen CT's 2019 Trust Act, and to raise awareness of the constitutional rights that all persons here have. GHIAA participated in a rally and press conference on March 3, and expects a public hearing to be held soon, for which we all will be invited to submit comments.

ICE has already begun to increase enforcement activity in CT, causing many immigrant families to fear going to work, going to school, obtaining health care, or participating in their faith communities. It is important for every person or organization who may have contact with ICE to know that they have the right to (a) remain silent when questioned, (b) have an attorney present during any questioning, and (c) be free of unreasonable search and seizure.

If you have questions about this, or if you want to participate in either or both parts of this new initiative, please email Linda Bronstein (lindadiane275@gmail.com) or Terry Schmitt (terryschmittwh@gmail.com). Thank you!

One Great Hour of Sharing, March 30th

"You're here to be the light, bringing out the God-colors in the world." Matthew 5:14

When you give to One Great Hour of Sharing, you are light for people in need. You offer light when disasters strike, and when chronic conditions threaten families and communities. You are light not just in the immediate future, but also for the long haul. When you give, you restore not only structures, but also transform lives. Your gift ensures that no matter how difficult the situation, light shines.

Be the light. Give to One Great Hour of Sharing.

AND we're stuffing plastic eggs for First Church's Easter morning Egg Hunt! All are welcome! Admission: A package of men's underwear (L-XXL) or a bag of laundry detergent pods. Please see Jennifer with questions.

The anthem the choir will sing is a real staple in traditional choral literature...“How Lovely Is Thy Dwelling Place,” by Johannes Brahms. It has been used often for large choir festivals and competitions. The edition we are singing is popular in the United States and is an English translation of the original German edition. Besides being a gorgeous piece to listen to, it also played a significant role in the evolution of the musical form of the Requiem, or Mass for the Dead. Up until this piece, there was a set standard of texts used for Requiems that followed the structure and liturgy of the formal Mass for the Dead. All of the texts were in Latin, and the various movements of the piece followed the sequence of the service. Brahms broke this tradition when he wrote his German Requiem, which uses poetry and texts that do not follow the Catholic Mass. Still, the texts were still mostly Biblical or taken from aspects of the Bible. For example, “How Lovely Is Thy Dwelling Place” is taken from Psalm 84. It is the fourth movement of the Requiem and is considered the high point of the work. Of all the movements from the German Requiem, it is the one that is most often performed separately on its own.

Another aspect that made the German Requiem different from previous requiems is that it was not written to follow the sequence of the mass, so it was not functional as a service piece. It was, instead, to console those who are left behind. Brahms wrote this work for his mother. He received word that she was dying, but he was unable to travel to see her before she passed. The 35-year-old composer completed the work two years later, and it was first performed in 1867. It provided him with international acclaim as a significant composer.
